There was quite an exciting game of ball at Columbia avenue ball park on Saturday afternoon between the Grandville and Holland nines. It was the first game of any importance played this season and in consequence there was a good attendance. There was some good ball playing on the part of both nines although the home nine was not thoroughly organized or in practice. In the field the home boys filled their positions quite acceptably but when it came to batting they were outclassed by the visiting nine. The score resulted 7 to 4 in favor of the Grandville boys and they returned to their home delighted to think they were the victors. A return game will be played in a short time.

The Battle of Austerlitz.

NAPOLEON'S MARVELOUS VICTORY IN HIS RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN.

Hon. Charles S. May who has watched Napoleon's career very closely says in a recently published article: Austerlitz is justly considered the most splendid if not the greatest of all Napoleon's victories. All the circumstances surrounding that battle in which was reaped the full harvest of a marvelous piece of military strategy—one great army surrounded and captured without a blow and now the combined remaining one annihilated in a single day are such that they possess a wonderful fascination, exciting our astonishment and admiration in equal degree. They have surrounded the field of this great exploit with a kind of pictorial splendor and lifted that little Moravian village into a halo of immortal fame. "The sun of Austerlitz" has become the synonym and signal of hope in the bursting dawn of every great triumph. That day the greatest warrior of history and the most wonderful man of modern times stood on the summit of his marvelous career.

In the summer of 1805 Napoleon was at Boulogne, with his splendid army, waiting for his descent upon England. The mighty enterprise had been formed and the vast preparations made—all he wanted now was his navy to guard his passage across the channel. With a genius for war which was not confined to movements upon the land the great captain had provided for this, but he was now balked by the failure of an incompetent admiral, hesitating and paralyzed in the face of Nelson, that mighty victor of the seas. In the meantime the genius of Pitt had formed another coalition with Austria and Russia, with Prussia secretly in the background, and without any formal declaration of war these nations were organizing and projecting towards France four great armies with an aggregate of half a million men. One of these armies was already moving across southern Germany to the Rhine.

These vast preparations, however designed to be kept quiet, did not escape the eagle eye of Napoleon, nor was he long in discovering a way to confound his enemies. He could not strike England, his great foe across the channel, for his squadron had failed him, but he would strike her allies, stealing towards him from the east, before their scattered armies could be concentrated. The movements of Napoleon at this period of his life were conducted with lightning-like rapidity—his plans came as the flashing intuitions of genius, and were followed by those sudden and crashing thunderbolts of war, which were like playthings in his hands. In twenty-four hours, in a single day, his great army was facing east and on its march to Germany—but not before he had laid his hand of despotic power upon the press, upon the mails, upon travel and every possible means of communication. Then marching swiftly towards Bavaria, he suddenly appeared upon the theater of war, while his enemies thought him still looking at England across the channel. Amazement consternation and confusion seized them. Mack, with his army of 85,000 men, was surrounded at Ulm, his lines of communication taken and his retreat cut off, and compelled to surrender—a great army captured entire, without the firing of a gun, at the opening of a campaign—an unparalleled thing in war. Pausing only long enough to receive the sword of surrender the conqueror sweeps on to the gates of Vienna, which open to him—the first time the proud capital of the modern Caesars had yielded to any foe.

Short time does the victor pause to enjoy his triumph in the conquered city. It is now the middle of November; he is more than a thousand miles from home, in a hostile country; the winter is close at hand and his enemies are gathering from every quarter. The Austrians and the Russians have concentrated an army of 90,000 in Moravia, near Brunn, and he marches there to give them battle and crush them before other armies now on the march, shall come to their assistance. That was always Napoleon's way when his foes were gathering. He did not wait for them, but boldly taking the offensive, he struck at the one nearest to him. He was now really in a situation of the greatest peril. A great allied army, outnumbering his own, in his front, with another army of Russians behind it coming up, with two Austrian army under the Archdukes Charles and John hastening from Italy and the Tyrol, and with Prussia ready to fall upon his rear with 100,000 men. With even fair military skill and prudence on the other side he must be lost. His only hope is in his own genius and in the blunders of his enemies.

In the last days of the month, after facing the allied army, he falls back, as if irresolute and uncertain, a short distance to the northwest of the little village of Austerlitz, draws his army of 70,000 men into a compact semi-circle on a range of hills, his right wing, the one towards Vienna, his natural and direct line of communication and retreat, refused, that is, swung inwards to the rear, like a half-shut door, as though fearful of attack in that quarter. And then he waits for the blunder. His confidence in the stupidity of his enemies is not misplaced. He has not to wait long. The young nobles and military charlatans around the two incompetent emperors persuade them to try what they thought the tactics of the great Frederick upon Napoleon's right wing, which seems so timid there, drawn back, as if fearful of attack. They would crush and turn this, with force of numbers, and thus cut the French emperor off from Vienna and drive him, routed and broken, into Bohemia. To do this they would have to weaken their center and their whole line, and march five or six miles by the flank across the front of the French army, under the eagle eye of its chief.

But this was their plan and on the 1st day of December they began to put it into execution. Napoleon watched their movements with inexpressible delight. When he saw the long columns of the enemies toiling round his front to attack his right he exclaimed "That army is mine!" It is strange how self-inflated stupidity will ignore the presence and power of genius. So Leslie with his Scotch army, at Dunbar, left his impregnable position on the hills of Lammermoor and descended into the plain, when Cromwell more devout than Napoleon, exclaimed: "The Lord has delivered them into my hands!" So the allied French and Austrian army at Rossbach, with its overwhelming numbers, under the incompetent Sobieske, undertook to march around the little army of Frederick. The grim Prussian monarch made no exclamation which history has recorded, but he immediately proceeded to pulverize and annihilate that allied army. And here was military stupidity leaving the strongest of positions on the heights of Pratzen to do this same thing over again. Even Napoleon dare not attack them. To his credit the Russian veteran, Kutusoff, protested against the movement.

All that day Napoleon watched his enemies with exultant and eager eyes, and was not deceived by their attempt to conceal their intention by crowding the heights in their center with their glittering masses. The soldiers, too, had seen and watched the movement and their great chief, as ever, took them into his confidence, and promised them victory on the morrow. When the darkness came on they were too much excited to sleep, and as Napoleon rode along his lines to see that all was right, followed by shouts of vive l'empereur, suddenly a great blaze of light lit up the scene, as each soldier ignited and held aloft on his bayonet the bundle of straw which was to have served for his bed. And then the very hills shook with the shouts of 70,000 men and the heavens were made as light as noonday, by that tossing sea of fire. It was the army's extemporized celebration of the first anniversary of the emperor's coronation. The allies heard and saw all this from their lines, and wondered what it meant.

As the night deepened the soldiers sank to sleep on the cold ground. But their great leader did not sleep. All night he watched and listened to the low, far away rumbling of the artillery carriage wheels which told him that the enemy was still weakening his center to attack his own right. The night was clear and still and the heavens lit with the winters stars. As the morning dawned the fog hung thick in the valleys and on the low marshes and lakes. The eager marshals, restless with high hope and expectation, were already up and gathered round their chief Soult and Davoust and Lannes and Murat and Bernadotte and Bessaries and Oudenot were there—a splendid array of great commanders. Only Massena and Ney were absent, fighting on the Adige and in the Tyrol. All eyes were turned towards the heights of Pratzen, all ears listening to the low rumbling of the artillery wheels, when suddenly "the sun of Austerlitz" burst over the east hills, scattering the fog in the valleys like gossamer and lighting up the landscape and the waving plumes and burnished steel of the opposing hosts with its splendor. The eager marshals were pressing to strike. "Not yet," said the chief. "When the enemy is making a false movement it is best not to interrupt them. We will wait twenty minutes."

The twenty minutes are now up, and as the rear of the Russian guns is heard on the French right, the chief turns to the group and says: "Now gentlemen, is the time!" and like a flash they depart for their several commands. Then mounting his horse Napoleon rides along his line. "Soldiers," he says, "the enemy has imprudently exposed himself to our blows. Let us close the campaign with a clap of thunder!" And now is seen a wonderful sight. That French army, under the hand of the master, is now a vast and perfect machine of war—a great human battery or dynamo, radiating its electric shocks and sending out its flaming thunderbolts, everywhere on the lines of the doomed allies. Soult, from the center, scales the heights of Pratzen, which are soon enveloped in lightning, smoke and thunder, like Sinai of old. Lannes and Oudenot charge the allied right. Bernadotte supports Soult, while Davoust holds the French right. Bessaries with the Guard, and Murat and Kellerman with the cavalry, stand, chafing with impatience, behind the attacking columns on the left and center. And now, when it is too late, the allied generals see their great mistake and make heroic efforts to retrieve it. They rush their forces to the defense of their imperiled center. Bagration, Buxhowden, the Grand Duke Constantine, with the Russian Imperial Guard—all these frantically mingle in the terrible strife. Too late, too late! The allied center is pierced, the allied army is broken in two. In the meantime Lannes has defeated the right wing and sent it in tumultuous rout towards Olmutz.

Now is the supreme crisis of the battle, or rather of the victory; now for the clap of thunder, as the great captain who holds these thunderbolts in his hand orders Soult and the victorious center to wheel to the right and take in the rear the crowded masses of the enemy, who have vainly been attempting to break through Davoust's wall of fire on the right wing. The Old Guard and the cavalry support them. It is rout and havoc and slaughter now. Shut in between these two fires, the heavy masses of the allies, who themselves have been two days crowding to this catastrophe are at the mercy of their foes. Broken bleeding, disorganized, they attempt to flee across the frozen lakes and marshes toward their other wing. The ice breaks under their heavy artillery wheels. A great, broken column of infantry and cavalry are fleeing across a frozen lake when Napoleon himself, with the excitement and fire of victory in his eyes, dashes up to his artillery, standing by their smoking guns, and exclaims, "Gentlemen, you are losing time. Fire on those masses." The order is obeyed, when, the balls glancing and bounding on the ice, the pieces are elevated in the air and the great, solid shot falls from its height upon the struggling mass, breaking the ice and instantly engulfing thousands of men and horses in the fatal waters. Such are the horrors of war.

But why linger for more description? The battle is over now—it is only the terrible, bloody harvest which is being reaped. Bloody enough, with its 10,000 allies stretched on that frozen ground, and rich harvest enough in spoils and trophies of war, with its 20,000 prisoners, its forty-five standards its 185 canon and its 400 cannons. Six thousand brave Frenchmen, too, lay upon the field in the midst of the heaps of their enemies. And all the while that December sun, which rose so brilliantly, now mounted higher in the heavens, had looked dimly and sorrowfully down through the sulphurous battle-clouds upon this awful scene of human carnage and fury.

Such was the great battle of Austerlitz—such the lightning strokes of that prodigious military genius. An army of 90,000 men crushed and scattered, nearly all its canon and half its standards taken; two proud emperors brought to grief—one flying for his life, the other the next day suing for peace on any terms before the conqueror's tent. Trafalgar was there balanced, almost effaced. That ocean victory cost the life of its illustrious hero, and when the news of this day's work reached the invalid Pitt, he turned his face to the wall and died of a broken heart. England had lost her greatest admiral and her greatest statesman, and Napoleon was lord of the continent.

"Gentlemen: Regarding prospects for the coming year, would say, we hope to double our last year's output of Aeromotors, or, at least, as we have done in the past, call twenty-four out of every twenty-five aeromotors that are sold. Since commencing the sale in 1890, WE HAVE SOLD ABOUT

500 AERMOTORS
We do not attribute this fairly good record entirely to our efforts, but to the superiority of the goods which you make. BOSMAN & BROS., Chicago, Ill., February 18, 1895.

400 AERMOTORS
In our small territory is represented the history of the Aeromotor and the Aeromotor Company from the beginning to the present hour. That history is one of unbroken triumph. In our territory—just where the Aeromotor was first introduced—there have been but few competitors. We have sold more Aeromotors in this territory than any other company, and we have done so by the most effective work for want of word. We should have sold more, but this region was well supplied with Aeromotors. We have sold more than 100,000 Aeromotors in this territory. You may have during the past year's record, you expect to double your output for the coming year. Count on us for the Aeromotor never sold further than all competitors in reputation and in fact than to-day. Bosman & Bros., Chicago, Ill., February 18, 1895.

The cost Aeromotor ad. will be of pumps. We shall offer for $7.50 A $15 three way force pump. All dealers should have it or can get it to sell at that price. All Aeromotor men will have it. The weak following will appear our advertisement of galvanized steel tanks at 15¢ cents per gallon. They neither drain, leak, rust, nor make water taste bad. Aeromotor Co., Chicago.

Editor News:

Mr. G. Van Schelven arrived here by the Obdam this evening at seven o'clock. Mrs. Hummer left the boat at Boulogne and proceeded from there to Paris. She will be in Holland in the course of next week. While I am writing this Mr. Van Schelven is taking a lunch. He will write to the News next week.

A Fatal Accident.

One of the most horrible accidents that it has been the duty of the News to record of recent date occurred on Tuesday afternoon. Gertrude Andree a twenty year old girl while engaged in working near a hot stove had her clothing ignited and before assistance could be rendered she received such severe burns that death resulted the same evening.

Her apron was the first garment ignited and it appears that the girl completely lost her presence of mind and instead of wrapping something about her she rushed out doors. The exposure to the air only fanned the flames, and her clothing was almost completely burned from her. The worst burns were about the chest, abdomen and lower part of the body.

Dr. Kremer was summoned and did all within his power to allay the unfortunate girl's suffering.

Miss Andree was industrious and of good character and had been in the employ of a number of our well known families. She was born near Hamilton and has only been a resident of this city for two years. The funeral took place from the First Reformed church on Thursday and the interment was in Pilgrim Home Cemetery.

At the Resorts.

THE CROWD BECOMING LARGER EVERY DAY.

Mayor Conklin of Decatur, Ill. is a guest at the Macatawa Park Hotel. He is much pleased with our summer retreat and will remain during the greater portion of the summer.

Mrs. Elisha Gray of Highland Park, Ill., is among the recent arrivals at the Macatawa Park Hotel.

Mr. Thomas Tammia of Japan is spending a few days at Macatawa Park. He may conclude to remain during the greater part of the season.

A. M. Atkinson, a well known banker of Wabash, Ind., is among the guests at the Macatawa Park Hotel. He has apartments for the season.

John Louckes is doing a rushing business at his grocery store and keeps five clerks constantly employed.

Among those occupying cottages at Ottawa Beach for the season are: Chas. B. Judd, J. Y. M. Blake, C. Answorth, A. Barber, Lizzie Chresmon, George Long, C. W. Coit, Mrs. Dr. Emmersen, Dr. Sinclair, Dr. Baker, F. M. Davis, George Downs, H. B. Fairchild, Sherwood Hall, C. L. Ives, Mrs. J. Kendall, C. H. Leonard, F. E. Leonard, John Mowatt, H. N. Moore, S. J. Osgood, C. F. Root, G. W. Parker and F. W. Stevens of Grand Rapids, J. W. Pitham of Texas and Mrs. N. S. McConnell of Chicago.

Mrs. Dr. M. Platt of Toronto, Canada, is sojourning for a few weeks at the Ottawa Beach Hotel.

John Sweet will entertain a party of Grand Rapids gentlemen at a banquet at the Ottawa Beach Hotel next Tuesday evening. The menu card will contain all the delicacies to be found in the market at this season of the year.

One of the largest excursions that has visited the resorts this season came from Battle Creek on Wednesday. It was under the auspices of the grocers and butchers of that thriving city and there were over 250 in the party including a fair proportion of the fair sex. The Germania band, one of the strongest musical organizations in the state, accompanied the excursionists and discoursed some popular airs at the resorts and during the afternoon an excursion on Lake Michigan.

The steamer Glenn carries large numbers of excursionists daily from St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, South Haven and other points along the east shore to our popular summer retreat. On Wednesday a large party came from Kalamazoo accompanied by the Salvation Army band.

It can now be said that the season has fairly opened as it always does the week after the Fourth. The large force of men that has been engaged at Ottawa Beach in clearing away the sand from the walks and making needed repairs to the hotel caused by the winter storms have about finished their work. Mr. John Sweet opened up the hotel for the reception of guests on Monday and expects before the end of the week to be well filled up. He has as chief clerk this year, Mr. J. H. Swayze an experienced hotel man.

Quite a number of guests have already arrived from Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Chicago and other points.

Mrs. W. H. Beach and family will camp out for a while at Macatawa Park.

Mrs. Dr. Eugene Sidall of Kalamazoo, Mich., is registered at the Ottawa Beach Hotel.

The Macatawa Park Hotel is now feeding on an average about one hundred and fifty at a meal.

About all the cottages at Macatawa Ottawa Beach, Jennison and along the south shore are occupied, which is seldom the case this early in the season.

Miss Lucia Perry who has been prosecuting her studies in Indiana during the winter joined her father and mother at Macatawa Park this week. She will remain until the school opens up in the fall.

A number of ladies have organized at Ottawa Beach a club known as the Union Jack. The emblem of the organization is a white lily and the headquarters is Gluttons den on Mount Pisgah.

Mr. J. B. Bryant is receiving his share of guests at the Jenison Park hotel and expects a good many more before the end of the week.

Contractors and carpenters who are not kept at work in the city find plenty to do at Macatawa Park where new cottages are being built all the time.

The first number of the Macatawa Mirror a paper devoted to the interest of the resorts and the Assembly about to be held, made its appearance on Thursday. It contains a quantity of good local news and other reading matter.

Prof. Graham Taylor of Chicago has purchased the cottage erected by W. D. Westervelt last summer on the lake front known as the World's Fair cottage.

The season so far has been exceedingly favorable for bathing as the water has retained a comfortable temperature. The bathers do not seem to be as numerous as they were last season however.

The Summer Normal.

On Monday the Seventh Summer Normal at Hope College opened and will continue in session for five weeks. There are already over 100 teachers enrolled and it is expected that there will be many additions to the number by the end of the week.

The regular instructors this year are Prof. J. W. Humphrey, Wayland, Conductor, Allegan county commissioner of schools; Miss Cora M. Goodenow, Berlin, Ottawa county commissioner of schools; Prof. J. H. Kleinhessel, of Hope College, Sec'y. All well known in this section of the state.

There will be afternoon lectures each day and prominent educators from abroad are expected here during the latter part of July and early in August.

There has been quite a demand for rooms and board during the week for the teachers who have come and in many instances they have had to crowd three and four in a room.

While prosecuting their studies here the teachers will also have an opportunity of spending their spare time at our popular resorts, and thus enjoying their summer vacation. Most of the teachers present are from Ottawa and Allegan counties although there are a number from other portions of the state.

A Weekly Shoot.

The Holland Blue Rock Club started in the season with a pleasant little contest at the Fair Grounds Tuesday afternoon in which several members of the Zeeland club participated. There was some good shooting done and the official score as furnished by Secretary Baumgartel was as follows:

At 25 single birds:
H. Karsten scored 22, H. Fisher 11, F. Hietje 20, A. De Kruif 12, Wm. Thomas 19, D. Blom 13, C. Harmon 20, S. Doty 17, A. Cady 11, A. Ferguson 13, Chas. Blom 5, G. Bender 10, Arthur Baumgartel 14.

Afterward there was a shoot at 10 pairs with only five participants. The outcome of this was that H. Karsten of Zeeland and Chas. Harmon of this city tied on 14 birds. Dave Blom made 8, S. Doty 9, George Bender 5.

Several new members were added to the club and the prospects are that there will be more lively contests this summer.

Farmer's Institutes.

By act of the last legislature, the State Board of Agriculture is authorized to hold a farmer's institute in each county in the state desiring one. These institutes are to be two days in length. The board will furnish speakers, with all expenses paid, to occupy one half the time of the institute. Local speakers will be expected to occupy the other half of the time; and local expenses, such as hall rent, heating, programs, etc., will have to be furnished by the institute society.

Counties desiring an institute must first organize an institute society under the provisions of the law. To organize, at least twenty residents of the county, without regard to sex but of legal age, shall meet and adopt a brief constitution, forms for which will be furnished, and by-laws, in harmony with the state law and rules of the board, and shall proceed to elect the following officers: A president, a vice president from each township in the county, and a secretary who shall also be treasurer. When any county already has an institute society, this society may be accepted by the board for institute purposes, by agreeing to conform to the rules of the board. A good active county agricultural society may also become an institute society, by making a similar agreement.

These societies must be organized by Sept. 20, 1895, and the earlier the better. If the farmers of this county desire an institute next winter, with help from the State, they should immediately begin getting ready to organize. We advise those interested to arrange for a meeting at an early date, so as to be in line with other counties. A copy of the law and rules governing these institutes can be seen at this office. Particulars regarding organizing can be obtained by writing to Kenyon L. Butterfield, Agricultural College, Mich., who is Superintendent of Institutes.

A Midnight Blaze.

A fire which came very nearly resulting disastrously broke out in the home of Cornelius Traas corner 14th and River street Thursday night about 11 o'clock. The occupants of the house were all asleep and only managed to escape from the building in time to save their lives. So rapidly did the flames spread that they were not even able to secure wearing apparel, and one of the boys had to jump from a window of the building egress in every other way being entirely shut off.

Owing to the fact, that there was some misunderstanding about the alarm the department did not reach the fire until it was beyond control. Three alarms were sent in rapid succession from boxes 21, 31 and 32, thus confusing the engineer at the water works. Mr. Traas estimates his loss at about $1,000. He has insurance for $500 on the house and $100 on contents. None of the family have the least conception of how the fire originated. For some time before the fire the neighbors heard the dog barking in the yard, and the opinion seems to prevail, that there was some stranger about the house.

"I was completely covered with sores. Every muscle in my body ached. Had been sick for five years. Doctors could do no good. Most of my time was spent in bed; was a complete wreck. Burdock Blood Bitters have completely cured me in three months." Mrs. Annie Zoepen, Crookstown, Minn.

ROMANCE OF THE BORDER.

How Bill Doolan, a Notorious Bandit, Won a Schoolma'am's Love.

About two years ago Bill Dalton, Bill Doolan and their gang held up a train near Gainesville, Tex. While the members of the band were rifling the express car Doolan held the passengers in their seats by the persuasive use of a Winchester. On the car back of the smoker, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, was a pretty girl who was going to the Chickasaw country to teach school, and her face seemed to attract the outlaw, for he inquired where she was going and her business.

A few months later a good-looking fellow began to be seen in the vicinity of Purcell, where the girl, Belle Bailey, taught school. The two became friends and then lovers. People warned the girl against Ballard, as the man called himself, but the young lady paid no attention to them. About a year ago Deputy Marshal Spears happened to ride into the place where Miss Bailey taught school, and found there this man Ballard. The recognition was mutual. Both went for their guns, but the stranger was the quicker of the two.

"Get down off your horse," he commanded, when he saw he had the drop on the officer. Spears obeyed.

"I won't kill you," said Ballard, "because I want to reform, if you'll let me, but I don't propose to be shot in the back. Unbuckle your belt and throw it away. Be careful how you do it, or you are a dead man."

The deputy obeyed and was left bound with his own handcuffs. During the melee the girl stood as though petrified. As she saw her lover about to turn away, she said: "Who and what are you?"

"Bill Doolan," replied the man. "I want to reform, but they won't let me."

Common rumor has it that Miss Bailey did not give up her outlaw lover even after she knew who he was. She lost her school, and six months ago she disappeared. No one knows just where the pretty school-teacher drifted to, but it is a fact that for the past year Doolan has been very quiet, and for four months no one has seen him in the territory. Sensational telegraphic reports sent out in regard to fights with the "notorious Bill Doolan" have proved fakes in every instance.

BOTHERSOME BORES.

Two of Them Who Were Very Properly Rebuked.

In a recent lecture on "bores" Rev. Dean Hole, an English clergyman, declared that the industrious agriculturist was as often the victim of bores as anyone else, though these troublesome persons are commonly supposed to pertain to a more artificial grade of society. But the agriculturist has at least the recourse, which is seldom resorted to in the grade of society which is pleased to call itself "polite," of telling the bore what he thinks of him, says the Youth's Companion.

Dean Hole related that an industrious farmer was visited one day by an idle and braggart neighbor who talked and talked, and wasted a whole afternoon.

When at last the idle farmer was about to depart, the industrious farmer said to him:

"Go! through the town?"

"Yaas."

"Know the cooper's shop?"

"Yaas—fellow that makes barrels."

"Well, just stop and have a couple of hoops put around your waist, or you'll burst with self-importance."

The "professional humorist" is also privileged to retort upon bores. Such a man as the elder Mr. Grossmith, inquired of a certain very tedious person as to the state of his health.

"Between three and four o'clock this morning," sighed the bore, "I was at death's door!"

"At death's door!" exclaimed Grossmith. "Oh, why didn't you go in!"

Would the Emperor Resign?

An exchange tells a story which may be taken as a fresh manifestation of a certain well-known Scotch characteristic.

Upon his accession to the throne, the emperor of Russia was appointed colonel in chief of the Royal Scots Greys. Whilst dressing for dinner an enthusiastic subaltern communicated the information to his soldier servant.

"Donald," he said, "have you heard that the new emperor of Russia has been appointed colonel of the regiment?"

"Indeed, sir!" replied Donald. "It is a vera proof thing."

Then after a pause, he inquired: "Beg pardon, sir, but will he be able to keep both places?"

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Allegan County.

The Allegan Gazette says the river is the lowest now it has been in over thirty years, at this time of the year. No water runs over the dam—indeed it is several feet below the top. As a usual thing, there is plenty of water nine months in the year.

The date for holding the annual meeting of the Allegan County Pioneer society is Wednesday, Aug. 21.

Agitation of factory matters has raised the question of better roads in the manufacturing district. Property worth from $125,000 to $150,000 is located there, yet the village has not expended $100 in the past ten years on the highways on which the various mills and factories are located.—Gazette.

Horace Rogers terminated his life the morning after the Fourth by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid. He was a farmer and his home was at Trowbridge. No cause is given for the rash act.

F. W. Robinson brought to this office this week limbs from peach trees which would be a revelation to any one who has an idea that the peach crop will be a failure in this part of the county. The peaches were so thick as to make the limb almost invisible.—Fennville Herald.

The fruit growers union of western Allegan county is a newly organized society of which M. E. Williams is secretary. Its membership includes the largest growers on the lake shore and they will this season ship equal to about a half million fifth packages.

The Saugatuck and Ganges Pomological society will meet at masonic hall, Douglas, on Saturday, July 13, at 2 p. m. The subject will be matters pertaining to shipping the present fruit crop.

Fennville has six grocery stores and only one dry goods store, which is not a fair division according to the Herald's ideas.

Ottawa County.

The black and red raspberries are nearly all ruined in the vicinity of Grand Haven. The bushes are being stripped of their leaves on account of the drought.

The Spring Lake Basket Co. is running a full force. They have about 109 on their pay roll, and are crowded with work and have orders to last them during the season.

Thomas Meeker of Cadillac lost an eye while carelessly shooting a cannon on the Fourth. He was once a well known Coopersville character.

June did not keep up its record as the month of marriages in Ottawa county. Only 17 marriage licenses were issued. Thus far this year 132 have been taken out, 20 more than last year at the same period.

Rev. John Humphreys, of Muskegon, has accepted the call of the Congregational church of Grand Haven and will become its pastor. His first sermon will be preached on Sunday, July 15.

The new fog horn house at the extreme end of the Grand Haven pier is nearly completed. The new building is 20x40, large enough to house with comfort the two engines for fog signaling, and is thoroughly fire proof, being inside and out with sheet iron.

Walter McEwen of Coopersville is 99 years old and is probably the oldest person in Ottawa county.

Zeeland.

Mrs. G. J. Van Duren and daughter Christine of Holland visited with friends and relatives here Friday. Miss Van Duren takes lessons in painting with Mrs. Lane's class here.—Expositor.

At the gun shoot on the Fourth Henry Van Eyck won the medal. The score was: Van Eyck 22, Dr. O. Baert 21, Karsten 21, A. Kamps 19, A. De Kruif 12, A. Edling 9. Mr. Edling was disabled after shooting at 15 birds by a shell exploding in his face.

Cornelius De Jonge graduated last week from the pharmaceutical department of the University of Michigan.

Port Sheldon.

The bowery dance at this place on the 4th of July, passed off as all bowery do, held here, without any rowdiness or harsh words, and our farmer boys and girls turned out in their best. There is no use for them to grumble of hard times, for our city belles and beaux could not look more respectable, and the hostess Carl McKinley and Al Aliger were given credit for the manner in which it was conducted.

There is to be an harvest dance in the Bowery on the night of the 19th, which we hope will be well patronized as the managers used their best endeavors to please all who come. Music will be furnished by Joseph Peck and M. Dries.

Mr. and Mrs. Bourton, Mrs. F. Gronyane and baby and Mrs. J. Yeager and two children, came to West Olive by the early morning train Friday and Mr. Cook at the bridge, met them and they enjoyed the day very much.

On Sunday the 7th, in the morning, a gray team was seen coming south over the bridge, which on close examination proved to belong to our old friend Mr. Wm. Jaques the Olive Centre Postmaster.

Mr. Ross Merritt of Olive Centre, was here fishing 2 or 3 days, but had very poor luck. The family returned home on Saturday.

Master's Will and Fred Hibbard of Chicago, who have been spending their vacation with Mr. Cook, returned home on Wednesday night.

Our school meeting was held as usual on Monday night, with a slim attendance. The taxpayers of the district like the scholars do not take much interest in school affairs, but those that were there are determined to enforce the compulsory education law this coming year. There are 65 children of school age in the district with only 30 to 35 average attendance. It was a unanimous vote to have the same teacher, Miss Breyman, who has taught our district for the last two terms.

The high winds have kept the fires going pretty bad and it would take a big shower to stop them. Section 22 and 23 is nearly all on fire.

Dogs were found running and killing sheep on the farm of Mr. Boone on the town line on Tuesday afternoon. The owners of the dogs are known, and steps have been taken to have them killed. The amount of damage done could not be ascertained before this was sent to mail.

A CENTURY OF WAR.

Soldiers Killed During the Battles of One Hundred Years.

When the revolution broke out France's effective army was only 120,000 men. For the wars waged during ten years, in Belgium, on the Sambre, the Meuse, the Rhine, the Alps, the Pyrenees, in the Vendee and in Egypt, there were called out 2,900,000. At the census made in the ninth year of the republic, says the London Lancet, there remained of these only 677,598. In the killed and in dead by disease the wars of the first republic cost France 2,122,403 men. From 1801 to Waterloo, 3,157,398 men scarcely sufficed to fill the blanks, which in an incessant war against combined Europe France incurred at Austerlitz, Jena, Auerstadt, Friedland, Saragossa, Eckmuhl, Essling, Wagram, Taragona, Smolensk, Moscow, Lutzen, Bautzen, Dresden, Leipzig and Waterloo.

Under the restoration of Louis Philippe and the second republic, in spite of the war in Spain (1833), the conquest of Algiers (1830) and the taking of Antwerp, France passed through a comparative calm. The army numbered about 218,748, and the mortality averaged 22 per 1,000. In 1853-5 commenced the epoch of the great wars—the Crimea, Italy (1859-60), China (1860-1), Mexico (1862-6) and the disasters of 1870. In the Crimea, out of 300,263 men, 95,615 succumbed; in Italy, out of 500,000, there died 18,673; in China, 950, and in Cochinchina 48 per 1,000. The second empire cost France about 1,600,000 soldiers. According to Dr. Langneau's demographic tables the century from 1795 to 1895 witnessed the death in battle or by disease of 6,000,000 French soldiers.

CURIOUS TONGUES.

Those of the Woodpecker, the Parrot and the Humming Bird.

Some fresh information about the tongues of birds has recently been gathered by a German naturalist. Many people suppose that woodpeckers use their sharp-pointed tongues as darts with which to transfix their prey. It is true that the woodpecker, like the humming-bird, can dart out its tongue with astonishing rapidity, and that its mouth is furnished with an elaborate mechanism for this purpose; yet investigation shows that the object of this swift motion is only to catch the prey, not to pierce it. For the purpose of holding the captured victim, the woodpecker's tongue is furnished with a sticky secretion.

Considering its powers of imitating speech, it is not surprising to learn that the parrot's tongue resembles that of man more closely than any other bird's tongue does.

It is not because the parrot is more intelligent than many other birds, but because its tongue is better suited for articulation than theirs, that it is able to amuse us with its mimicry.

The humming-bird's tongue is in some respects the most remarkable of all. It is double nearly from end to end, so that the little bird is able to grasp its insect prey with its tongue, very much as if its mouth were furnished with a pair of fingers.

Shoes of the Olden Time.

During the reign of William Rufus, Henry I. and Stephen all sorts of extravagant shoes were worn. The toes were sometimes long and pointed and sometimes made a curl like a ram's horn. Occasionally they were twisted in different directions, as though the feet were deformed. In 1469 English ladies and gentlemen wore the points of their shoes a yard long and fastened to the garter with golden chains ornamented with bells. The custom was prohibited under pain of being cursed by the clergy, but, as it showed no signs of abating, a fine of twenty shillings was assessed for every public appearance in such shoes.

Bodies Preserved by Choke-Damp.

A curious story, illustrating the preservative properties of choke-damp, comes from China. In the province of Anhui a party of miners recently struck an ancient shaft where history records that a great catastrophe occurred four hundred years ago. The miners on opening the old shaft came upon upward of one hundred and seventy bodies of the former workers lying where they had been overcome with foul gases four centuries back. The corpses were as if life had left them yesterday, quite fresh looking, and not decayed in any way. On an attempt being made to move them outside for burial they crumbled away, leaving nothing but a pile of dust and the remnants of the stronger part of their clothing. The miners, terrified, fled from the spot, and, though there were valuable deposits of coal in the shaft, nothing would induce the superstitious men to return to their work.

IN COMMAND OF THE ARMADA.

Several of the Things Which Philip II. Forgot.

In the Armada the crusading enthusiasm had reached its point and focus, says Froude in Longman's Magazine. England was the stake to which the virgin, the daughter of Spain, was bound in captivity. Perseus had come at last in the person of the duke of Medina Sidonia, and with him all that was best and brightest in the countrymen of Cervantes, to break her bonds and replace her on her throne. They had sailed into the channel in pious hope, with the blessed banner waving over their heads.

To be the executor of the decrees of Providence is a lofty ambition, but men in a state of high emotion overlook the precautions which are not to be dispensed with, even on the sublime of errands. Don Quixote, when he set out to redress the wrongs of humanity, forgot that a change of linen might be necessary and that he must take money with him to pay his hotel bills. Philip II., in sending the Armada to England, and confident in supernatural protection, imagined an unresisted, triumphal procession.

He forgot that contractors might be rascals, that water four months in the casks in a hot climate turned putrid and that putrid water would poison his ships' companies, though his crews were companies of angels. He forgot that the servants of the evil one might fight for their mistress after all and that he must send adequate supplies of powder, and, worst forgetfulness of all, that a great naval expedition required a leader who understood his business. Perseus, in the shape of the duke of Medina Sidonia, after a week of disastrous battles, found himself at the end of it in an exposed roadstead, where he ought never to have been, nine-tenths of his provisions thrown overboard as unfit for food, his ammunition exhausted by the unforeseen demands upon it, the seamen and soldiers harassed and dispirited, officers the whole week without sleep, and the enemy, who had hunted him from Plymouth to Calais, anchored within half a league of him.

A WEIRD SEA TALE.

The Deep Mystery of an Abandoned Ship and Its Missing Crew.

One of the strangest stories about an abandoned ship comes from the Indian ocean. In 1823 the British corvette Lizard was cruising off Ceylon. A ship came in sight with all sail set, and making good speed through the water. The officers took a long look, and one said: "There is something wrong about that vessel. Her crock is loose and flapping, and there is no man at the wheel. We had better run down to her."

This was done, says the New York World, and when near it was seen that the ship had no crew, as there was no answer to the hail. When boarded there were no marks of trouble until, on raising a sail that was spread over the main hatch, the body of a man was found. He had been ironed to the lock-bars of the hatch cover, and had apparently been dead a week.

On going into the cabin the body of an elderly man was found. He had been stabbed to death. On examining the log-book it was on record that the ship was Spanish, from the Philippines, and named El Frey Antonio; but, strangely, the last entry was six weeks past, and spoke of abandoning the ship at a point a thousand miles away, bound for Malaga, Spain. She was left on the road to China. A pitcher of water on the table was intact. Could the vessel have come this long journey without meeting a storm, and how had the dead men got here? They had not been dead six weeks, and both were Lascars.

The Frey Antonio was taken into Madras, the Spanish government notified, and their answer only made the mystery deeper. The ship had sailed from Celebes more than a year before, with six Roman Catholic priests as passengers, bound for Spain, and had no Lascars among her crew. And this was all. And from that far away time until now the story of El Frey Antonio is one of the secrets of the deep.

HOW TO FIGHT INDIANS.

A Recipe Given for the Benefit of Blood-thirsty Boys.

Jack now took off his blue flannel jumper and overall trousers, fixed them artistically together and stuffed them out with the coarse grass growing everywhere around us. Then he held the dummy beyond the edge of a bowlder in such a way as to look as if the bulge of his own body were protruding, says Lippincott's Magazine.

The old, old ruse succeeded admirably, for instantly there came from the cover, about thirty yards away, a hurtling shower of arrows; and as soon as Tom and I had fired our decoy shots a squad of hideously painted Apaches sprang up, and with uplifted tomahawks and terrific yells, rushed toward us. But not for far.

"Now, boys!" shouted Jack, and at the crack of our rifles the three foremost braves went headlong down.

For a few seconds the others stood bewildered, and then, as one after another dropped under the storm of revolver bullets, fired so rapidly as to seem like the work of a dozen enemies, the surviving warriors darted off to their ponies and scurried away.

Napoleon's Death Mask.

The death mask of Napoleon, which was taken immediately after the demise of the conqueror at St. Helena by Dr. Automarchi, was obtained under great difficulties. There was not an ounce of plaster of paris to be had on the island, therefore the doctor scoured the cliffs in every direction for a piece of gypsum. This he at last found and calched until powdering was possible. On this account the work was very crude, but this notwithstanding he had an offer of six thousand pounds sterling (about thirty thousand dollars) for the cast before it was a month old. Several of the replicas are now valued at twenty thousand dollars each.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthy activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificial digested foods or peeps—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep with so-called celery mixtures, it is better to go to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bilio-ness, and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak, nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

Mrs. K. HENKE, of No. 866 North Halsted St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I regard my improvement as simply wonderful. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in connection with his 'Pleasant Pellets' I have gained in every respect, particularly in flesh and strength. My liver was dreadfully enlarged and I suffered greatly from dyspepsia. No physician could give relief. Now, after two months I am entirely relieved of my disease. My appetite is excellent; food well digested; bowels regular and sleep much improved."

Heart Disease Cured

By Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

Fainting, Weak or Hungry Spells, irregular or Intermittent Pulse, Fluttering or Palpitation, Choking Sensation, Shortness of Breath, Swelling of Feet and Ankles, are symptoms of a diseased or Weak Heart.

MRS. H. C. MILLER.

OF Fort Wayne, Ind., writes on Nov. 29, 1901: "I was afflicted for forty years with heart trouble and suffered untold agony. I had weak, hungry spells, and my heart would palpitate so hard, the pain would be so acute and torturing, that I became so weak and nervous I could not sleep. I was treated by several physicians without relief and gave up ever being well again. About two years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Remedies. One bottle of the Heart Cure stopped all heart troubles and the Restorative Nervine did the rest, and now I sleep soundly and attend to my household and social duties without any trouble.

STOP IT NOW!

Stop It Quickly, Just the Same as Did
Mr. Charles H. Hoffman, of 182
Ten Eyck Street, Jackson.

If you have a pain in your back, stop it!
A lame back, stop it! An aching back, stop it! Do you want to know how? Let us tell you! In the first place, never try to rid yourself of pain without knowing the cause. If pain or ache exist there is reason for it. Find out this reason and get after it. Strike cause a stiff blow with the right weapon, and its allies, pain and ache, will flee like chaff before the wind. To get right down to it, backache is indicative of kidney disorders, a spy placed there by nature; listen to his warnings and take up the weapon, strike before disease is reinforced with allies that can not be routed by hand of man, such as Bright's disease. Let us introduce to you this weapon! Let us prove its superiority to all others! Here is a blow it struck:

Mr. Charles H. Hoffman is a fireman on the M. C. R. R., and resides at 182 Ten Eyck Street, Jackson, Mich. He says:
"I have suffered for a long time from a kidney and bladder disorder which has at times rendered me incapable of work;
have been at the hospital for my complaint and discharged from there as cured, but the old complaint has invariably come back again. Some time ago I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I began taking them, with most gratifying results. Urinary complaints which bothered me greatly are very much improved, and the pain I suffered in my back has entirely left me, my general condition is much improved. I would not like to be without Doan's Kidney Pills, I think others should know what a valuable remedy it is."

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Berrien County Courthouse Cornerstone Laid Under Masonic Auspices.

St. Joseph, July 5.—The cornerstone to Berrien county's new courthouse was laid Thursday with impressive ceremonies conducted by the grand lodges of Free and Accepted Masons of Michigan. It is estimated that 10,000 people were present. The weather was all that could be desired. At 9:30 o'clock the procession formed, there being represented in the line several bands, the grand army, odd fellows, Knights of Maccabees,

THE NEW COURTHOUSE.

Modern Woodmen, Knights Tem-plar, Master Masons, Grand Lodge, board of supervisors, county officials and citizens in carriages, who paraded the main thoroughfares to the courthouse, where the exercises took place.
After raising the new flag and music by the quartette, Grand Master Edwin L. Bowring conducted the masonic ceremonies. Then Rev. Hardin W.
Davis read an original poem by Nixon Waterman entitled: "A Song of Peace," and Orville W. Coolidge, judge of the Second judicial circuit, delivered an address.

FOREST FIRES IN MICHIGAN.

Timber and Grain Destroyed Near Mio—Helped by the Drought.

Mio, Mich., July 10.—Extensive forest fires are raging in this section and spreading rapidly on account of the drought. Information comes from Cummings township that Joseph Sullivan's farmhouse and buildings were consumed.

PITTSFIELD, Mich., July 10.—Forest fires have been raging along the Toledo & Ann Arbor road the last few days, and unless rain comes within twenty-four hours the damage will be great. Over 160 acres of wood land and wheat fields have already been burned. Smith's dairy farm is wiped out and miles of fences consumed.

MUSKEGON, Mich., July 10.—The city of North Muskegon and vicinity is in the throes of the greatest forest fire ever witnessed here, and hourly the danger becomes greater as the flames creep along with astonishing rapidity.
Farmhouses and extensive crops are threatened on all sides, and the farmers have turned out in a body to check the headway. It will be almost fruitless, however, as already over 5 square miles are one mass of flames, and the dense smoke makes a battle with them almost impossible.

Word has reached the city of the burning of Albert Van Zandt's sawmill, a large quantity of logs, shingles and lumber, amounting to several thousand dollars. Several farmhouses cannot escape the flames, and it is reported that many acres of crops have already been reduced to ashes. Unless rain comes soon no one can tell what the damage will be.

MUST APOLOGIZE TO BOYNTON.

Decision in the Case of the Valley Tent of Maccabees.

GRAND RAPIDS, July 9.—Officers of Valley City Tent of Maccabees have received the decision of the executive committee of the grand tent in relation to its alleged rebellious conduct toward the peremp-tory removal of Great Record Keeper Boughton. The tent is required to strike from its records all reference to the mass meeting at which resolutions were adopted condemning Commander Boynton, and is also required to apologize and pass resolutions expressing loyalty to the present officers.

Three-Cent Fares at Detroit.

DETROIT, July 9.—Mayor Pingree figured as motorman Monday on the first car which marked the inauguration of the Detroit railway's new car system in this city, and at the same time the introduction of a three-cent fare, for which the mayor has fought for several years. He was cheered enthusiastically along the entire route.

The Mob Relented.

MORENO, July 9.—A band of masked men strung up Chester Strong by the neck until he confessed to mistreating little girls. Then he was let down, given a few cents and told to leave the state at once, on pain of being hanged for keeps. He started for Ohio on the run, followed by a shower of revolver bullets.

Wants a Divorce.

GLENDORA, July 9.—Mrs. Jacob Vandusen has begun divorce proceedings against her husband. The couple have been married sixty-five years. The trouble arose over their property, which the husband sold without his wife's consent.

He Wanted to Die.

OWOSSO, July 4.—John R. Rockwell, a prominent merchant of Jackson, turned on the gas in his room at the Newton house Tuesday night. When discovered he cut his throat with a jackknife. He will recover.

Drowned Himself.

BLISSFIELD, July 9.—Robert Pollard, aged 83, and one of the oldest masons in southern Michigan, despondent through ill health, dropped from his window Sunday night, and drowned himself in the river.

Killed by a Hog.

OWOSSO, July 8.—The 2-year-old child of Edward Frost, of Venice township, was killed and eaten by a vicious hog. The mother did not notice its absence until too late.

Falls from a Boat and is Drowned.

HOLLAND, July 7.—Gerrit Bontekoe, a 9-year-old lad, while playing in a boat tied to the shore fell into the water and was drowned.

There was a murder near Tallmadge on Monday, the victim being Mrs. Levi Pierce. Mary Pierce and a young man named George Cheesbro are under arrest in connection with the crime. The former is a thirteen-year old girl broke down and made a full confession. She says Cheesbro interfered while she and her mother were engaged in a quarrel and after a bitter altercation struck his grandmother. The confession of both exonerates the girl from actual participation in the crime, though she helped clean up the room and tried to shield the murderer. Both have been bound over to the grand jury.

As soon as the Holland base ball team gets thoroughly well organized and have had a little practice they will accept the following proposition made through the columns of the Grand Haven Tribune: Holland makes the hint that our ball club dare not play them, and claim that we like to play a team of farmers like West Olive. Manager Lehman authorizes us to tell the Hollanders to come here any day but Saturday and Sunday with their outfit. For two years the boys have been attempting to get the Holland team here, but without success. One game was advertised, but Holland let it go by default. Consequently the locals have come to the conclusion that Holland is afraid of us. If not, they are welcome to play us anytime.

At a meeting of the school board on Monday night all the teachers with the exception of Miss Kate Pfanstiehl signified the acceptance of their positions in the schools. The latter was made a more flattering offer elsewhere. The most important matter that came up for consideration was that of heating. The special committee having this matter in hand recommended that the engine, boiler and other heating apparatus be removed from the central school building to a new building to be erected between the two buildings on the central grounds. A new boiler will also be added and a smoke stack 65 feet high erected. The board also ordered the purchase of flag poles for the different school buildings.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for anyone that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
